4 INTRODUCTION

5 A. At times material to this Indictment:

6 1. Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham and Wong, Inc.,
7 (BBRD&W) was incorporated in Hawaii on October 11, 1978.

8 2. The defendant RONALD REWALD was the co-founder of 9 BBRD&W, owned 50% of its stock, and was Director and Chairman of the 10 Board of Directors, Vice-President and Treasurer of BBRD&W.

11 3. BBRD&W was registered as an Investment Advisor with 12 the United States Securities and Exchange Commission.

13
14 THE SCHEME TO DEFRAUD

15 B. Beginning on or about October 11, 1978, and continuing 16 thereafter up to and including July 29, 1983, within the District
17 of Hawaii and elsewhere, the defendant, RONALD REWALD and others,
18 did devise, and intend to devise, a scheme and artifice to defraud
19 and to obtain money and property by, among other things, inducing
20 members of the public to invest and reinvest in BBRD&W, and 21 diverting money for their own personal gain and use to the 22 detriment of the investors, all by means of false and fraudulent
23 pretenses, representations and promises, and omissions of material
24 facts well knowing at the time that the pretenses, representations 25 and promises would be and were false when made to investors and 26 potential investors, each and all of whom were members of and constituted a class of persons to whom the defendant, RONALD

1 REWALD, for the purpose of executing such scheme and artifice to 2 defraud, and attempting so to do, knowingly caused BBRD&W litera-
3 ture and correspondence to be placed in an authorized depository
4 for mail matter, to be sent and delivered by the United States
5 Postal Service to investors and potential investors all in the 6 following manner:

7 The Illusory Corporate Image

8 1. It was part of the scheme and artifice to defraud
9 that in 1978 the defendant RONALD REWALD would and did associate 10 himself with Sunlin L. S. Wong, a Honolulu real estate broker, for 11 the purpose of using Wong's name and established Hawaii business
12 and reputation to attract residents of the State of Hawaii to place
13 money in BBRD&W.

14 2. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to 15 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD would and did use the 16 names of some of the most prominent families in Hawaii in the 17 corporation's name, that is, "Bishop", "Baldwin" and "Dillingham," 18 in order to create the false impression that these families were 19 associated with BBRD&W and to reinforce his false assertion that 20 BBRD&W was "one of Hawaii's oldest and largest privately held
21 international investment and consulting firms . . . [w]ith prede-
22 cessor firms going back 65 years"

23 3. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to 24 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD and others leased space at 25 the Grosvenor Center, Honolulu, Hawaii, and furnished it in a
26 manner designed to give the appearance that there was an ongoing

1 successful investment and consulting business, when in truth and in 2 fact it was not.

3 4. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to
4 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD and others would and did
5 arrange the office space at BBRD&W to give the appearance of an 6 active, efficient and competent investment and consulting firm.

7 5. In furtherance of the scheme to defraud RONALD REWALD
8 caused BBRD&W to lease half the 26th floor of the Grosvenor Center.
9 BBRD&W utilized only a portion of that space. The remaining part 10 was sublet to professionals and others unrelated to BBRD&W. This 11 was intended to and did give the appearance that these tenants,
12 including the Vice Consul of Indonesia, were BBRD&W employees.

13 6. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to 14 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD hired individuals who did 15 not possess the necessary experience and expertise for the 16 positions for which they were employed.

17 7. It was further a part of the scheme and artifice to 18 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD would and did inten-
19 tionally and continuously fail to provide such BBRD&W employees
20 with information essential to the performance of their jobs and 21 assignments.

22 Misrepresentations

23 8. It was a further part of the scheme and artifice to 24 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD and others, in order to 25 induce investors and potential investors to invest and reinvest in 26 BBRD&W and to obtain money and property from said investors and to

1 lull the investors into a false sense of security as to the merits
2 and value of their investments, would and did, through promotional
3 literature and conversation make false and misleading representa-
4 tions of material facts to the investors and potential investors,
5 well knowing at the time that said representations would be and 6 were false and misleading when made.

7 9. The promotional literature and conversations
8 containing the misrepresentations delivered or made to investors
9 and potential investors by the Defendant and BBRD&W employees and 10 consultants included, but were not limited to the following:

11 a. The April 18, 1983 Hawaii Chamber of Commerce,
12 Voice of Business article;

2 ney, experienced and highly successful investment counselor and 3 international financier;

4 (7) The investors and potential investors,

6 personal tragedy, could completely trust the defendant RONALD 7 REWALD and BBRD&W employees to manage those clients' financial and 8 legal affairs;

9 (8) Potential investors of BBRD&W were being 10 granted a special privilege by being permitted to invest their 11 money with BBRD&W because their investments were below the minimum
12 amount of money usually accepted by BBRD&W;

13 (9) That BBRD&W could not accommodate 90% of 14 those who applied to become clients;

15 (10) That that was a two-year waiting list of 16 potential clients and investors for BBRD&W;

17 (11) That BBRD&W used clients' money to make 18 prudent investments and loans;

19 (12) That BBRD&W earned money through short

25 or six month investment was from 12% to 14% of the funds loaned;

5 in real estate, oil, shopping centers, acquisition of banks, and in 6 a "foreign pool for investments."

7 (17) That BBRD&W was a financially ultra-
8 conservative firm;

9 (18) That BBRD&W only dealt in "secured, safe,
10 non-risk investments";

12 first and only consideration and, therefore, clients were not 13 "subject to speculative, marginal or non-secured investments";

14 (20) That the accounting firm of Price
15 Waterhouse performed audits of BBRD&W;

16 (21) That BBRD&W was "negotiating the purchase
17 of a sizable [sic] bank in Honolulu" and had "just acquired Pacific
18 Finance here in Hawaii";

19 a. Misrepresentations Concerning The 20 Investment Savings Account

21 (1) That BBRD&W's "tax deferred savings
22 accounts", also called "Investment Savings Accounts", had been 23 available since Hawaii's "territorial days";

24 (2) That the "Investment Savings Accounts"
25 were guaranteed to return 20% on the amount invested;

26 (3) That in addition to the 20% guaranteed

1 amount would be paid, usually 5% to 7%, which represented "actual 2 earned income on the investment account;

3 (4) That the "Investment Savings Accounts" had
4 returned an average of 26% per year for the previous 20 years;

5 (5) That the "Investment Savings Accounts" had 6 special tax advantages; that is, if the interest earned on the 7 account was not taken out of BBRD&W the investor would not have to 8 pay federal income taxes on that interest earned;

9 (6) That the "Investment Savings Accounts"
10 were "insured subject to liquidity requirements established by the 11 Federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC);

12 (7) That the "Investment Savings Accounts"
13 were "insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC)
14 to a limit per account of $150,000";

15 Omissions

16 11. It was a further part of the scheme and artifice to 17 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD and others, to induce 18 investors to invest and reinvest in BBRD&W, and to obtain money and 19 property from said investors and potential investors, would and did 20 conceal and omit to state material facts which were necessary to 21 prevent the statements from being misleading, in light of the 22 circumstances under which they were made, including but not limited
23 to the following:

26

1 (a) That the defendant RONALD REWALD had been
2 charged and pled guilty to a State of Wisconsin petty theft charge

11 for making lulling payments to investors;

12 (e) That only approximately six hundred

12. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud and for the purpose of lulling the investors and potential investors defrauded and intended to be defrauded into a false sense of security regarding the 20 percent interest they had been guaranteed on the "Investment Savings Accounts", the defendant RONALD REWALD and others would and did send or caused to be sent by the United States mail, quarterly statements to the investors that showed that their accounts had "earnings" in the amount of 20 percent; when in truth and in fact, as the defendant RONALD REWALD well knew at the time, virtually no earnings had been obtained by BBRD&W from the monies invested by the investors.

13. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud and for the purpose of lulling the investors and potential investors defrauded and intended to be defrauded into a false sense of security regarding the additional five to seven percent which was not guaranteed, but which BBRD&W claimed to have been paying for two decades on the "Investment Savings Accounts", the defendant RONALD REWALD and others would and did send or caused to be sent by the United States mail, statements at the end of each year to the investors showing that their accounts had earnings in amounts approximating 6 percent in addition to the 20 percent that had been paid on the accounts throughout the year; when in truth and in fact, virtually no earnings had been obtained by BBRD&W from the money invested by the investors.

1 14. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to
2 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD, for the purpose of
3 lulling the investors and potential investors defrauded and
4 intended to be defrauded into a false sense of security, would and 5 did send or caused to be sent to investors through the United 6 States mail numerous items, including announcements of new 7 associates and consultants employed by BBRD&W, and items identified
8 as "1982 Spring Update", "1982 Summer Update", "1982 Fall Update",
9 "Special Report", "First Quarter Report", "Second Quarter Report"
10 and "Third Quarter Report."

11 15. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to 12 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD, for the purpose of 13 lulling the investors and potential investors defrauded and 14 intended to be defrauded into a false sense of security would and 15 did cause to be sent to investors through the United States mail a 16 letter dated April 23, 1982, announcing the death "of Grant Randall
17 Dillingham, a senior partner in Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham
18 and Wong", when in truth and in fact, as defendant RONALD REWALD
19 well knew, there was no such person as Dillingham associated with 20 BBRD&W.

21 16. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to 22 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD for the purpose of lulling
23 the investors and potential investors into a false sense of 24 security, would and did send or caused to be sent to investors
25 through the United States mail the following letter and article
26 from the Chamber of Commerce of Hawaii, Voice of Business, dated April 18, 1983.

CHAMBER SPOTLIGHT

Bishop, Baldwin
Rewald, Dillingham
& Wong

Ronald Rewald has a two-year backlog of clients with an average worth of $4 million each.

Few Hawaii-based businesses are as international in scope or as influential in their daily business dealings as Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham & Wong. Officially billed as a multi-national consulting firm, Bishop, Baldwin has been in Hawaii for more than two decades parlaying its business and financial acumen into a network of offices and consultants with global resources and influence.

Today, the attorneys, accountants, consultants and staff of Bishop, Baldwin can be found in offices in London, Paris, Stockholm, Napa, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Tahiti, New Zealand, Australia, Jakarta, Singapore, Taipei, Hong Kong, and Guam. The company serves clients and governments ranging from the U.S. Senate and the White House to ex-Presidents, international business financiers and Saudi Arabian princes. Ronald R. Rewald serves as Chairman of the Board and with the direction of its President, Sunlin Wong, consults and advises numerous clients in areas of finance and management.

Bishop, Baldwin has developed a reputation for expertise in the areas of international finance and banking. Its quarterly and special reports to clients often track world trends for gold, silver, oil, stocks, securities, real estate and other investment vehicles. Yet at the same time, the company maintains a steady flow of serving its clients' personal needs and estate planning and management advice.

The average Bishop, Baldwin client is worth $4 million and there is currently a two year waiting list of potential clients. More than 90 percent of those who apply to become clients cannot be accommodated. The majority of Bishop, Baldwin clients in recent years have been foreign, wishing to do business or migrate to the United States.

Although the international consulting firm employs experts in the affairs of Asia, South America, Europe, the South Pacific and the Middle East, company headquarters remain in Hawaii, on the 26th floor of the Grosvenor Center. Bishop, Baldwin continues to make its home base in Honolulu and is bullish about Hawaii's economy and Hawaii as an international base for business and finance.

Examples of the company's pro-Hawaii stance can be found in the local investments it has made on its own behalf. These include investments in an automobile dealership (MotorCars Hawaii), and numerous individual business and corporations, the newest of which will be David Baldwin's project, a new tourist and kamaaina restaurant scheduled for completion later this year.

Much of what the firm does is not publicly known and cannot be known because of the extreme confidentiality expected and received by clients. Yet, the company's continued global growth and influence demonstrates that Hawaii can serve as world headquarters for international operations of many sorts.

Investor Monies

2 17. It was a further part of the scheme and artifice to
3 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD and others would and did
4 obtain approximately twenty two million dollars ($22,000,000)
5 principally from investors in Hawaii and California.

6 18. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to 7 defraud that the only money invested by BBRD&W was approximately 8 six hundred twenty three thousand dollars ($623,000) of the twenty 9 two million dollars ($22,000,000) obtained from investors.

10 19. It was a further part of the scheme and artifice to 11 defraud that the remaining funds, approximately twenty one million
12 three hundred seventy seven thousand dollars ($21,377,000),
13 received from investors was not invested or spent in a manner
14 likely to produce income for the investors, but was used for the 15 following purposes:

16 (a) To maintain RONALD REWALD in an exceptionally 17 lavish lifestyle;

18 (b) To create and maintain a false facade of 19 legitimate investment activity by BBRD&W;

20 (c) To pay others, who together with the defendant
21 RONALD REWALD engaged in activities which gave the appearance of 22 substantial investment activity by BBRD&W, when in fact the actual 23 investment of investors money was virtually non-existent; and

24 (d) To pay money labeled as "earnings" to certain 25 investors to give the illusion that investments had been made which 26 produced earnings.

20. It was a further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD and others would and did

1 use the investor's money for their personal benefit and to cover
2 liabilities of BBRD&W and RONALD REWALD, without revealing to the 3 investors that virtually no investments had been made.

4 21. It was a further part of the scheme and artifice to 5 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD and others, for the 6 purpose of lulling the investors and potential investors defrauded
7 and intended to be defrauded, into a false sense of security, would 8 and did allow, from time to time, investors to withdraw what they 9 thought was their money, when in truth and fact BBRD&W gave the 10 investors money received from other investors.

11 22. It was a further part of the scheme and artifice to 12 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD and others, in order to 13 attract new investors, would and did encourage employees, investors
14 and potential investors to recommend BBRD&W to their friends.

15 Diversion of Investor Monies
16 For Rewald's Benefit

17 23. It was part of the scheme and artifice to defraud
18 that the defendant RONALD REWALD, by virtue of the power and 19 control he exercised over BBRD&W, failed to keep financial books
20 and records required by generally accepted accounting principles
21 and the Investment Advisors Act. The defendant RONALD REWALD, by 22 virtue of the power and control he exercised over BBRD&W, directed 23 that BBRD&W use checking accounts as the primary accounting record.

24 24. It was a further part of the scheme and artifice to
25 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD, by virtue of the power 26 and control he exercised over BBRD&W, directed and caused to be made false and fraudulent entries on the checks and other records of BBRD&W.

1 25. It was a further part of the scheme and artifice to
2 defraud that the defendant RONALD REWALD, by virtue of the power
3 and control he exercised over BBRD&W, did spend a total of 19 2. In order to regulate the sale of securities, the 20 SEC, in the public interest and for the protection of investors, 21 requires investment advisors to maintain certain books, records and 22 reports which are subject at any time to examinations by represen-

24 3. In Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section

10 Advisor Act of 1940, made use of the mails and other means and 11 instrumentalities of interstate commerce in connection with the 13 keep for proscribed periods such records prescribed as necessary

14 and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of

22 THE GRAND JURY FURTHER CHARGES:

23 1. On or about June 20, 1983, the defendant RONALD 24 REWALD was notified by Roger A. Hood, Assistant General Counsel of 25 the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), that (a) a BBRD&W
26 brochure provided to clients and prospective clients of BBRD&W stating that the BBRD&W Investment Savings Accounts "are insured by

1 the FDIC to a limit per account of $150,000" was a "false represen-
2 tation;" (b) that such representation may constitute a violation of 3 criminal laws of the United States; and (c) the FDIC would delay
4 further action on the matter until July 1, 1983 in order to receive
5 a response by BBRD&W to Mr. Hood's letter.

6 2. On or about June 28, 1983, in the District of Hawaii
7 and elsewhere, in a matter within the jurisdiction of an agency of 8 the United States, to wit: the FDIC, the defendant RONALD R. REWALD
9 knowingly and willfully did make a false, fictitious and fraudulent
10 statement and representation as to a material fact, by submitting 11 or causing to be submitted to the FDIC a letter in which the 12 defendant REWALD stated or caused to be stated that:

13 (a) The preparation and distribution of the BBRD&W
14 brochure containing information regarding the FDIC referred to in 15 Paragraph 1 above was "wholly unauthorized by [BBRD&W] and that the 16 persons responsible have been either dismissed or severely
17 reprimanded"; when in truth and in fact, as the defendant RONALD 18 REWALD well knew, he personally authorized the preparation and 19 distribution of the brochure; and additionally did so subsequent to 20 June 20, 1983.

21 (b) "Some new BBRD&W employees, in an effort to 22 attract new clients in the past few months . . . may have possibly 23 made representations that were unauthorized, misleading and 24 inaccurate"; when in truth and in fact, as defendant RONALD REWALD
25 well knew, he had been making and had authorized other BBRD&W
26 employees to make these misleading and inaccurate statements for a substantial period of time;

1 (c) "The Investment Savings Account has never
2 represented any type of income or profit" for BBRD&W; when in truth
3 and in fact, as defendant RONALD REWALD well knew, the Investment
4 Savings Account represented virtually all of BBRD&W's income, and 5 that BBRD&W never made a profit;

6 (d) It was never the intention of BBRD&W to attract
7 clients for the firm through the use of the Investment Savings
8 Accounts; when in truth and in fact, as defendant RONALD REWALD
9 well knew, these accounts represented virtually the sole means of 10 attracting clients to the firm.

11 (All in violation of Title 18, United States Code, 12 Sections 1001 and 2).

14 THE GRAND JURY FURTHER CHARGES:

15 1. The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is an 16 independent, quasi-judicial regulatory agency of the United States
17 of America responsible for providing protection for investors and 18 the public in their securities transactions by administering laws
19 relating to the field of securities and finance.

20 2. The Investment Advisors Act of 1940 (the Act), which 21 regulates investment advisors, requires, with certain exceptions,
22 that persons or firms who engage for compensation in the business
23 of advising others about their securities transactions shall 24 register with the SEC and conform their activities to statutory 25 standards designed to protect the interests of investors.
26 Registration as an investment advisor is not automatic and may be denied by the SEC if certain disqualifications exist, such as

1 conviction for certain financial crimes or securities violations
2 and other willful violations of the Act. SEC application forms for 3 Investment Advisors contain a certification, by the applicant that 4 any unamended Items and Schedules remain true, correct and 5 complete.

6 3. On or about September 23, 1976, the defendant RONALD
7 REWALD caused to be filed with the Securities and Exchange
8 Commission (SEC) an Application for Registration as an Investment
9 Advisor, Form ADV-Schedule D, which stated that RONALD REWALD
10 graduated from Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in 11 1966, and that he had not been convicted in the past ten years of a 12 crime involving, among others, fraudulent conversion or 13 misappropriation of funds.

14 4. On or about March 18, 1980, the defendant RONALD 15 REWALD caused to be submitted to the SEC an Amended Application for 16 Registration under the Investment Advisor's Act, Form ADV, in which 17 he represented that that all statements made in previously filed
18 Applications for Registration remained true, correct and complete;
19 and that CMI Corporation (through which he had previously 20 registered as an investment advisor in 1976) had changed its name
21 to BBRD&W.

22 5. On or about January 5, 1983, in the District of 23 Hawaii, in a matter within the jurisdiction of an agency of the 24 United States, to wit: the SEC, the defendant RONALD REWALD did
25 knowingly and willfully:
26

1 a. make a false, fictitious and fraudulent
2 statement and representation as to a material fact by submitting
3 and causing to be submitted to the SEC an Amended Application for 4 Registration as an Investment Advisor, Form ADV, in which he stated
5 that:

6 (1) BBRD&W does "not recommend to (investment
7 advisory) clients or prospective clients, the purchase or sale of 8 securities in which the applicant [BBRD&W], directly or indirectly, 9 has a position or interest"; when in truth and in fact, as the 10 defendant RONALD REWALD well knew, BBRD&W recommended to virtually 11 all clients and prospective clients the purchase of securities in 12 which BBRD&W had a direct position and interest, to wit: the 13 BBRD&W Investment Savings Account;

14 (2) "All clients are charged at the rate of 15 $180 per hour and no percentages, commissions or royalties are ever
16 taken by [BBRD&W]"; when in truth and in fact, as the defendant
17 RONALD REWALD well knew, BBRD&W and the defendant RONALD REWALD
18 paid commissions to employees and "consultants" and used clients'
19 investment monies to pay all business expenses as well as to 20 support the defendant RONALD REWALD's lavish lifestyle;

21 (3) "[BBRD&W's] principal business is serving 22 as estate planners and business advisors;" when in truth and in 23 fact, as the defendant RONALD REWALD well knew, the principal 24 business of BBRD&W was recommending and advising investors and 25 potential investors that they purchase an interest in BBRD&W's
26 Investment Savings Account to the exclusion of other securities;

1 (4) BBRD&W does not sell securities to any of 2 its investment advisory clients, when in truth and in fact, as the 3 defendant RONALD REWALD well knew, BBRD&W sold securities to 4 virtually all of its clients, to wit: the BBRD&W investment
5 savings account;

6 (5) "All unamended [previously submitted]
7 Items and Schedules remain true, correct and complete as required",
8 which included the statement made in the September 23, 1976 Form
9 ADV in which it was stated that the defendant RONALD REWALD
10 graduated from Marquette University in 1966; when in truth and in 11 fact, as the defendant RONALD REWALD well knew, he never attended
12 on a full-time basis, graduated or received a degree from Marquette
13 University; and

14 b. Did conceal and cover up and caused to be 15 concealed and covered up by trick, scheme and device a material
16 fact by submitting and causing to be submitted to the SEC an 17 Amended Application as an Investment Advisor, Form ADV, in which he 18 omitted to state that the defendant RONALD REWALD, had, in 1976,
19 been convicted of theft in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in connection with 20 fraudulent business practices.

21 (All in violation of Title 18, United States Code,
22 Sections 1001 and 2).

24 THE GRAND JURY FURTHER CHARGES:

26 1 of Count 84 of this Indictment as though the same was fully set forth herein:

1 2. On June 1, 1983 an attorney for the SEC informed the 2 defendant RONALD REWALD by letter that the SEC had received
3 information that BBRD&W may be engaged in the offer and sale of 4 securities through the BBRD&W investment savings account and unless 5 some exemption from registration was being relied upon, BBRD&W
6 might be in violation of federal securities laws. Additionally,
7 the SEC requested that the defendant RONALD REWALD provide it with 8 certain information and documents.

9 3. On or about June 7, 1983, in the District of Hawaii,
10 in a matter within the jurisdiction of an agency of the United 11 States, to wit: the SEC, the defendant RONALD REWALD knowingly and 12 willfully did make a false, fictitious and fraudulent statement and 13 representation as to a material fact by submitting or causing to be 14 submitted to the SEC a letter in which he stated or caused to be 15 stated that:

16 (a) The investment savings account was a "holding 17 mechanism used [by BBRD&W] for funds awaiting investment direction
18 from [BBRD&W] clients;" when in truth and in fact, as the defendant
19 RONALD REWALD well knew, the investment savings account and funds
20 deposited therein by investors were directed and used solely by 21 BBRD&W and that BBRD&W clients had exercised no control over the 22 investment savings account.

23 (b) "Steps had been taken to terminate any further 24 use of [the investment savings account]," when in truth and in 25 fact, as the defendant RONALD REWALD well knew, BBRD&W would and 26 did continue to solicit and accept investor monies into the investment savings account after June 1, 1983.

1 (c) The investment savings accounts "have never 2 represented any type of income or profit for [BBRD&W]", when in 3 truth and in fact, as the defendant RONALD REWALD well knew, this 4 account represented virtually all of BBRD&W's income, and that 5 BBRD&W had no profit.

6 (d) It was never the intention of BBRD&W to attract
7 clients to the firm through the use of the Investment Savings
8 Accounts; when in truth and in fact, as the defendant RONALD REWALD
9 well knew, the investment savings account represented the sole
10 means of attracting clients to BBRD&W.

14 THE GRAND JURY FURTHER CHARGES:

19 that investigation, Special Agent Joseph A. Camplone of the

1 statement and representation as to a material fact, by stating to 2 Special Agent Joseph A. Camplone of the IRS that the automobiles in 3 his possession were on consignment to him from the owners, when in 4 truth and in fact, as defendant RONALD REWALD well knew, he and his 5 wife had purchased and/or personally owned all of the automobiles
 6 in their possession at that time.

16 16. The CIA is an agency of the United States of 17 America. In part, its responsibilities include the collection,
18 production and dissemination of foreign intelligence.

19 B. 1. In Bankruptcy case 00381, the United States
20 District Court for the District of Hawaii had to consider certain 21 matters in ruling on:

22 a. the investors motion to find BBRD&W
23 bankrupt because it was not regularly paying its bills;

24 b. defendant RONALD REWALD's response thereto
25 that he was not bankrupt because BBRD&W was operating at the 26 direction of the CIA and subsidized by the CIA and therefore the Federal Government was responsible for paying the bills of BBRD&W;

1 and that he needed additional discovery to prove his contentions.

2 See F.R.Civ.P. 56(e) and 56(f);

3 c. defendant RONALD REWALD's notice of intent
4 to use classified information;

5 d. defendant RONALD REWALD's motion for

13 C. 1. On or about September 14, 1983, in the District

17 United States authorizes an oath to be administered, that he would 18 testify, declare, depose and certify truly, and that any written 19 testimony, declaration, deposition and certificate subscribed by 20 him is true, did willfully, knowingly and contrary to such oath
21 state and subscribe to material matter which he did not believe to 22 be true, to wit: did declare in a "Confidential Affidavit" in a 23 case being heard in the United States District Court for the 24 District of Hawaii, entitled, In Re Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald,
25 Dillingham and Wong, Docket No. 00381, as follows:

26 a. Toward the end of 1978, Welch suggested that Sunny Wong and I establish a second firm which would specialize in the Far East and in doing so use names as part of the 1 firm name which were synonymous with Hawaii.

2 Sunny and I considered some names at the 3 direction of the station chief such as Castle,
4 Cooke, Cassidy, and etc.; and finally we came
5 up with a combination called Bishop, Baldwin,
6 Rewald, Dillingham and Wong.

7 * * * *

8 b. In further discussions with Welch
9 concerning the Bishop Baldwin cover, we were 10 told (myself, Sunny Wong, and Sue Wilson), that 11 we should put it forth that Bishop Baldwin had 12 a lengthy history, that it had existed since 13 territorial days, that it was capitalized at 14 $300,000, and that our gross sales were over 15 $1,000,000.

16 * * * *

17 c. ...Welch said that I would therefore
18 be given "fake" degrees from Marquette
19 University in both business administration and 20 in law, and that I could use either or both if 21 I felt that, particularly as to the law degree,
22 I could carry it off. Subsequently, I received 23 from the CIA printing office in Washington the 24 two parchment degrees.

25 2. The aforesaid affidavit of the defendant RONALD 26 REWALD, as he then and there well knew and believed, was false in that:

18 a. Eugene Welch, Chief of the CIA's Domestic 19 Collection Division's Honolulu office, did not suggest or tell the 20 defendant RONALD REWALD and Sunny Wong to set up BBRD&W;

21 b. Welch did not tell the defendant REWALD, Sunny
22 Wong or Sue Wilson to say that BBRD&W:

- 23 (1) had a lengthy history;
24 (2) had existed since territorial days;
25 (3) had been capitalized at $300,000; and 26 (4) had gross sales of over $1,000,000;

1 c. Welch did not say that the defendant RONALD
2 REWALD would be given fake law and business administration degrees
3 from Marquette University;

4 d. The CIA did not give any Marquette degrees to the 5 defendant RONALD REWALD.

26 1984) in which he stated, among other things, that he needed additional time and discovery to prove his claims of CIA

1 involvement (citing F.R.Civ.P. 56(f)), that is, BBRD&W was 2 subsidized and directed by the CIA and therefore, the Federal 3 Government was responsible for paying the bills of BBRD&W and that 4 a constructive trust should not be imposed.

5 2. It was material for the District Court to 6 consider and determine, among other things, whether the defendant
7 RONALD REWALD was operating the financial affairs of BBRD&W at the 8 direction of the CIA; whether the CIA subsidized BBRD&W; and 9 whether the defendant REWALD should be granted a continuance and

25 B. 1. In the SEC case, 83-0812, the United States

matters in ruling on:

1 a. defendant RONALD REWALD's contention that he
2 was acting at the direction of the CIA in respect to directing the 3 activities of BBRD&W and therefore, did not have the intent to 4 defraud BBRD&W's investors when the defendant RONALD REWALD made
5 and caused to be made the misrepresentations and omissions of 6 material facts set forth the SEC's complaint for injunction;

7 b. defendant RONALD REWALD's notice of intent to 8 use classified information;

26 him is true, did willfully, knowingly and contrary to such oath

5 2. The United States filed a motion to remand the 6 defendant RONALD REWALD's State Indictment back to the courts of 7 the State of Hawaii for trial.

8 B. 1. In the Removal Case, Misc. No. 84-0125, the 9 United States District Court for Hawaii had to consider among other
10 matters, whether the defendant RONALD REWALD was acting, at times
11 relevant to his State Indictment, at the direction of the CIA in 12 respect to directing the activities of BBRD&W and therefore was 13 entitled to have the State of Hawaii theft by deception charges
14 tried in Federal Court.

15 2. In support of his contention the defendant RONALD 16 REWALD filed a "Declaration of Ronald Rewald In Support of [the]

 7 not believe to be true, to wit: did make a declaration in a case
 8 being heard in the United States District Court for the District of 11 The CIA directed [REWALD] to create BBRDW...

12 * * * *

13 [REWALD] at no time had the intent to deprive 14 anyone of any money because he was acting under

 17 information to cover all investments as adver-
 18 tised. All representations made by [REWALD]
 19 and BBRDW, including representations relating 20 to FDIC insurance, were made at the direction
 21 of or with the knowledge, acquiescence, and

 The CIA supplied money to BBRDW which permitted
 BBRDW to give investors such a high return.

1 2. The aforesaid Declaration of the defendant RONALD
2 REWALD, as he then and there well knew and believed was false in
3 that:

4 a. The CIA did not direct the defendant RONALD

13 d. The CIA did not direct the defendant RONALD 14 REWALD to advertise that BBRD&W had historically supplied investors
15 with a 26% return on investment;

16 e. The CIA never supplied money to the defendant
17 RONALD REWALD or BBRD&W other than approximately $3,000 to 18 reimburse the defendant RONALD REWALD for business expenses such as 19 the rental of a telephone and a telex machine and the printing of 20 business cards;

21 f. The CIA did not supply the defendant RONALD 22 REWALD with college or law degrees;

23 g. At all times the defendant RONALD REWALD intended 24 to deprive investors of their money; and was not acting at the 25 direction of the CIA when he made misrepresentations and omissions

PRESS RELEASE

A Federal Grand Jury sitting in Honolulu has today returned a second indictment arising out of an investigation of the activities of the firm of Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham and Wong, its officers, directors, employees, and consultants.

Dan Bent, United States Attorney for the District of Hawaii, said that the indictment charges Ronald Rewald with 100 counts of mail fraud, securities fraud, making false statements to the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Internal Revenue Service, perjury, falsely advertising Bishop, Baldwin accounts were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, failure to keep records prescribed by the Securities and Exchange Commission, interstate transportation of stolen securities or money, and violations of the federal income tax laws including tax evasion.

Mr. Bent said that the indictment charges that Rewald was Chairman of the Board, Vice-President, and Treasurer and 50 percent shareholder of Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham and Wong from its incorporation on October 11, 1978 until its collapse in August of 1983. In its 59-page indictment the Grand Jury charged that over a period of almost five years, Bishop, Baldwin engaged in a scheme to defraud investors and succeeded in obtaining approximately $22 million from over 400 investors in Hawaii, California, and elsewhere in the United States.

In connection with the scheme to defraud the Indictment charges that Mr. Rewald made the following misrepresentations concerning Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham and Wong:

1. That the firm had been in Hawaii for 20 years and that predecessor firms went back 65 years;
2. That the firm had global influence;
3. That the firm could not accommodate 90 percent of those who applied to be clients;
4. That the firm had a two-year waiting list of potential clients and investors;
5. That the firm dealt in "secured, safe, non-risk investments";
6. That the investment savings accounts had returned an average of 26 percent per year for the previous 20 years;
7. That the investment savings accounts were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The Indictment further charged that Mr. Rewald omitted to inform investors and potential investors of the following:

1. That Ronald Rewald had been charged and plead guilty in the State of Wisconsin with a petty theft offense involving franchises in 1976;

2. That Ronald Rewald had been adjudicated bankrupt in Wisconsin in 1976 and that of approximately $22,000,000 taken in by the firm only approximately $600,000 was ever invested.

The Indictment further charges that Ronald Rewald spent approximately $5,500,000 of investor money for his own personal benefit. The Grand Jury charges that among the items which Mr. Rewald purchased with investor money were:

1. "Social and sexual intercourse" with women at a cost of $270,000.

2. Expenses totalling $256,000 in connection with the support of polo.

3. Expenses totalling $264,000 in connection with the purchase and care of horses.

4. Expenses totalling $719,000 in connection with the purchase of various residences.

5. Expenses totalling $784,000 in connection with the purchase and lease of "ranches".

6. Expenses for the purchase of automobiles totalling $467,000.

7. Expenses diverted from Bishop, Baldwin to sporting goods companies owned by Ronald Rewald totalled $669,000.

The Grand Jury further charges that Ronald Rewald committed perjury when he stated under oath and in a declaration that the Central Intelligence Agency had directed the founding of Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham and Wong and had directed Mr. Rewald to make various misrepresentations concerning that firm. The Grand Jury also charged Mr. Rewald with perjury in connection with his statements under oath that the CIA directed Mr. Rewald to misrepresent that BBRD&W investments were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, that the CIA had supplied Mr. Rewald with college and law degrees from Marquette University and that the CIA had supplied money to BBRD&W which permitted the firm to give investors a high rate of return.

Further the Grand Jury charged Ronald Rewald with evading income tax. The indictment charged that he evaded tax on personal income for the following years in the following amounts:

Year	Tax Evaded	Personal Income on Which Tax was Evaded
1979	$ 21,536.80	$111,790
1980	$209,407.98	$414,160
1981	$401,107.01	$621,112

If convicted Ronald Rewald faces a term of imprisonment exceeding his natural life and fines exceeding $500,000.

Mr. Bent commended the extraordinary efforts of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Internal Revenue service in connection with this extremely complex and time-consuming investigation which has required interviewing hundreds of witnesses and examining hundreds of thousands of financial, bank and other records. Mr. Bent also commended the assistance of John F. Peyton, Jr., Assistant United States Attorney, Theodore S. Greenberg, Special Assistant United States Attorney, David L. Katz, and Jeffrey B. Setness, Special Attorneys, U.S. Department of Justice, for their work on this case.

Mr. Bent stated that the investigation by several federal law enforcement agencies is continuing.

ABC WORLD NEWS TONIGHT
19 September 1984

INVESTIGATION/
CIA

JENNINGS: We have a fascinating story tonight which involves 22 million missing dollars, a host of investors who lost their money, a man who's accused of swindling them and the CIA. Last July in Hawaii, an investment banker named Ronald Rewald was charged with what investigators said then was a classic scam, hundreds of investors putting millions of dollars into a phony investment plan. At the time, most people concentrated on the people who had lost their money. There is a good deal more to the story. ABC News has been investigating, and now Gary Shepard reports on Ronald Rewald and the CIA

SHEPARD: It was just over a year ago that Ronald Rewald was arrested in Honolulu and thrown in jail, accused of swindling 400 investors out of $22 million. His investment firm, Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham and Wong, was declared bankrupt. But then the story took a strange twist. Rewald claims he was really working for the Central Intelligence Agency. RONALD\REWALD: I certainly don't deny the fact that I was a covert agent, and I don't deny the fact that I was running that portion of Bishop, Baldwin that involved the agency.

SHEPARD: The CIA won't say whether Rewald was an agent, but admits it had, quote, 'slight involvement' with the Bishop, Baldwin Company. The man appointed by the court as the firm's bankruptcy trustee confirms the CIA connection. THOMAS\HAYES (bankruptcy trustee): Clearly it was a commercial cover operation for the Central Intelligence Agency. One or more agents used it for that purpose. But that doesn't justify stealing $22 million of someone's money.

SHEPARD: But Rewald denies the money is missing at all. He says it's in several different banks under other names. And as far as slight CIA involvement is concerned, ABC News has learned the agency was heavily entrenched in Bishop, Baldwin, running a number of foreign and domestic intelligence operations, one of which violated an international agreement, others in direct violation of U.S. law. ROBERT\JINKS: I saw personally some documentation of undercover operations that were being carried on under the covers established by Bishop, Baldwin.

SHEPARD: For the CIA? JINKS: For the CIA.

SHEPARD: In a sworn deposition, Bishop, Baldwin consultant Robert Jinks says he too was a CIA agent. He once went to Hong Kong with Rewald, he says, on a clandestine mission. It's purpose to spread scare stories about the financial impact of China taking over when Britain's lease runs out in 1997. The firm even released a lengthy report which encouraged investors to move their money elsewhere. (GRAPHIC: Report titled Capital Flight from Hong Kong and How Hawaii Can Benefit.) REWALD: Certainly we were doing our part just like everyone else was to keep that money flowing towards the United States as opposed to Europe or some other country.

SHEPARD: To fuel the panic in Hong Kong? REWALD: That's right.

SHEPARD: Bishop, Baldwin was also involved in arranging secret shipments of military hardware to countries like Syria, India and Taiwan. Another agent, Russell Kim, in a sworn statement, says the Taiwan deal involved such items as laser sighting devices for M-16 rifles, armored personnel carriers and M-60 tanks. This multimillion dollar back door deal enabled the CIA on behalf of the U.S. government to circumvent its agreement with mainland China not to supply certain offensive weapons to Taiwan.

REWALD: I don't think any of us really doubted that we owe an obligation to Taiwan, that we willing to support them on an ongoing basis; however, that's not something that could be overtly.

SHEPARD: Among the 400 investors in Rewald's firm were Gen. Arnold Braswell, commander of the entire U.S. Air Force in the Pacific, and two former CIA station chiefs in Honolulu. This man, Jack *Kinceny, was one of them. Both the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Internal Revenue Service have filed charges against Rewald. But an earlier confidential SEC report obtained by ABC News shows the SEC found no violations in the firm's investment activities, and evidence from several sources confirms the CIA was able to stop an initial IRS investigation. One of Rewald's lawyers, Melvin Belli, says the CIA is involved in a massive coverup. MELVIN\BELLI: They said, number one, 'He's not a CIA man, and it's not a CIA operation.' On the other hand, they got through telling me one thing. Then they tell me, 'Someday he's going to have to pay for this. You know, he took a loyalty oath when he joined the CIA.'

SHEPARD: The House Oversight and Investigation Subcommittee is now scrutinizing Bishop, Baldwin and its CIA connection. ABC News has learned the CIA has admitted to the subcommittee Rewald was an agent with a signed secrecy agreement. Even so, he's been indicted by a federal grand jury on 100 counts of fraud, tax evasion and perjury. Gary Shepard, ABC News, New York.

JENNINGS: There is even more to this story, and we'll continue telling it tomorrow.

JENNINGS: In just a moment: an ABC News investigation: did the CIA try to kill a particular investment banker?

AP09 INVESTIGATION/
CIA

JENNINGS: Last night we began to tell you the fascinating story of a man named Ronald Rewald. He was an investment banker in Hawaii who now faces charges of swindling his investors out of $22 million. Well, Rewald says the money isn't missing and that he was working for the CIA. Last night we reported on established links between the CIA and Rewald's firm. Tonight Gary Shepard continues our investigation of the CIA connection.

SHEPARD: Did the Central Intelligence Agency try to have Ronald Rewald killed to keep him from talking?

RONALD\REWALD: At first I didn't believe it. I thought it was total nonsense, and it took a lot of convincing and a lot of evidence and a lot of the facts to be checked out before I recognized that it was, in fact, what was going on.

SHEPARD: Rewald has been indicted by a federal grand jury on 100 counts of fraud, perjury and tax evasion in connection with the bankruptcy of his Honolulu investment company. He claims, and ABC News has evidence, he was a covert agent for the CIA and his firm, Bishop, Baldwin, Rewald, Dillingham and Wong, was a front for a major CIA intelligence operation. It was last November, while Rewald was in jail in Honolulu, that this man, Scott Barnes, who sources say has extensive intelligence background, got a job at this same prison as a guard for one month. Barnes says he was sent in by the CIA.

SCOTT\BARNES To do a profile on Ron, find out who he's talking to, what he is saying and do a psychological makeup on him and see what his mental, emotional status was.

SHEPARD: Then one day Barnes says he was called to a meeting at this hotel with this CIA contact. BARNES: Then all of a sudden we're sitting down at the Royal Hawaii and he says 'We've got to take him out.' You know, kill him.

SHEPARD: Did they tell you why they wanted you to get rid of him? BARNES: That he was a company problem and he obviously knew some things in regards to national security and, you know, he was no longer an asset, he's now a liability.

SHEPARD: Barnes says he quit the assignment and left Hawaii. Brent Carruth, a defense attorney in another CIA case, says that story doesn't surprise him at all. He recalls a threatening conversation he had with one of the government lawyers who are prosecuting Rewald.

BRENT\CARRUTH (attorney): I was told that, in no uncertain terms, that they would take, they would take any steps that were necessary to protect a particular agent and that they were going to cover people. And once that was done, then they were going to go after Ron Rewald, not before.

Qing

SHEPARD: And the 'they' you're speaking of is whom?
CARRUTH: Central Intelligence Agency.

SHEPARD: The CIA denies it ever tried to kill Rewald and refuses to say whether it tried to buy off any of the 400 investors in Rewald's company, investors who lost $22 million. A number of them have filed lawsuits against the CIA to recover their missing money. Ted Frigard, who lost $287,000 is one of them. He says the government offered him a payoff if he'd drop his lawsuit against the agency. TED FRIGARD (investor): Their offer was that they would pay me $350,000 in triple A, unregistered, municipal bonds. And then as we got up to leave, the man said, 'You know, if you become too big of a pain in the arse,' he said, 'they will shoot you through the heart. They will report it as a heart attack. Your body will be cremated by mistake and all that will be left will be the coroner's report that you had a heart attack.'

SHEPARD: Frigard says the CIA never came through with the money and he's still suing. Why so much agency concern with the Bishop, Baldwin story getting out? ABC News has learned that Rewald's company provided the cover for some of the CIA's most sensitive and potentially embarrassing operations. Not only was Bishop, Baldwin involved in selling arms to Taiwan, India and Syria and promoting financial panic in Hong Kong, it was also fueling capital flight from two allies, Greece and the Philippines, countries with destabilized economies, in exchange for intelligence information. And, according to Ron Rewald, the agency was conducting illegal domestic operations, spying on foreign students on college campuses and planting domestic propaganda. But despite his CIA connection, Rewald still faces 100 federal criminal charges. His trial is scheduled to begin on Nov. 7. Gary Shepard, ABC News, New York.

JENNINGS: We'll be back in just a moment.

26 September ABC News:

Last week on this broadcast we told you the story of a man named Ronald Rewald and about his undercover work for the CIA. During our investigation of the CIA connection, one man that we identified as working for the Agency said he was asked by his CIA contact to kill Rewald. The Agency denied any such thing and repeated requests by ABC News for more comment on what we knew about the Rewald story were denied. Well, the CIA has now made a public statement and it says, in part, that we, ABC News, wrongly accused the Agency of attempted assassination and other improper practices. Our report, says the CIA, contained false and distorted statements. We stand by the story and the investigation continues.

Dear Mr. Burke:

Mr. Sporkin and I appreciate you and your colleagues seeing us last Monday. I do not need to repeat how dismayed we are with the two-part series on Hawaiian businessman Ronald Rewald and the false and distorted accusations contained in the report.

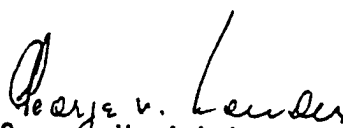

As Mr. Sporkin and I said, we fully favor ABC's undertaking a complete and thorough investigation of the accuracy of the series and the circumstances surrounding its production. We intend to continue to follow the inquiry closely and look forward to receiving your findings and learning about the remedial action you intend to take. Since the investigation apparently will take some time for ABC to complete, we advised you at our meeting that we consider it imperative that a statement be issued promptly giving the CIA's views on the totally misleading nature of the report and the irresponsible investigative work. We provided you with a statement which we hoped ABC would broadcast to present our views. We were disappointed to learn the day following our meeting that ABC declined to issue our statement and offered instead to use a softened version tied to ABC's defense of its original report. This, of course, in CIA's view compounds the harm and unfairness we already have suffered.

As we explained to you, the most outrageous and disturbing of the numerous false statements in the report is the allegation that CIA participated in a plan to "kill" Ronald Rewald. We are shocked that you would accuse the CIA of an activity that is expressly prohibited by law and that you do so on the basis of unverified statements by a source who has been discredited by a number of news organizations, including your own. We believe ABC has been professionally irresponsible and has maliciously libeled the CIA and its employees. Your refusal to retract any of these unfounded accusations or even to broadcast our statement presenting the Agency's position on the broadcast leaves us no alternative in the interest of the CIA and its employees but to pursue other avenues of redress.

David W. Burke, Vice President and Assistant to the President

So that the record in this matter can be complete, we have enclosed another copy of the statement Mr. Sporkin and I left with you. We are certain that our position will be borne out by a careful investigation of the matter. We again ask that ABC retract its report and that it take all other remedial action necessary to repair the harm done to this Agency and its employees.

Sincerely,

George Varick Lauder
Director of Public Affairs

We regret that ABC has chosen to air a series of reports wrongly accusing the CIA of engaging in an attempted assassination and other improper practices. These accusations were made by certain persons interviewed in connection with ABC's series on Ronald Rewald, a Honolulu businessman now awaiting trial under a 100-count federal criminal indictment. The ABC report contains false and distorted statements which one local Honolulu newspaper following the case closely has refused to print because of a lack of any substantiation. The Agency obviously is constrained from responding to the series because the case is in litigation. CIA believes, however, that it is important the public know that the report issued by ABC is an example of irresponsible journalism. The report contains unsubstantiated assertions, facts that have not been fully investigated and conclusions that ignore relevant court documents. The ABC report does a great disservice to the many dedicated men and women who work selflessly without seeking the recognition that is duly theirs in protecting this Nation's security. We ask that the network retract its report, and conduct a thorough and impartial investigation to determine who is responsible for the report and what corrective measures must be taken to prevent a recurrence.
